In the recent Apostolic Constitution Vivat eucharistia on universi- ties and ecclesiastical faculties, Pope Francis says that “today we are not only living in a time of changes but are experiencing a true spiritual shift, marked by a wide-ranging ‘anthropological’ and ‘environmental crisis’” (p. 13). Thus the training of candida- tes to the priesthood requires of the Church today a pedagogy fully open to the integration of different aspects of formation. In the 2016 Ratio fundamentalis on priestly formation we read that “John Paul II’s pedagogical vision of priestly formation is fully open to the integration of different aspects of formation” (n. 141) and those involved in teaching. The objective is to provide them with the skills necessary to integrate the intellectual dimension of forma- tion with other aspects of formation of candidates to the priesthood.

In addition to the morning discussions led by experts of proven com-petence, participants will be able to take part in the afternoon work-shops which deal with practical issues involved in formation.

The sessions will be held in Italian, with simultaneous translation into English and Spanish will be available.

The SIXTH STUDY WEEK is addressed to formation staff involved in training candidates to the priesthood, especially the “coordinators and ‘environmental crisis’” (n. 141) and those involved in teaching. The objective is to provide them with the skills necessary to integrate the intellectual dimension of forma- tion with other aspects of formation of candidates to the priesthood.

In the recent Apostolic Constitution Vivat eucharistia on universities and ecclesiastical faculties, Pope Francis says that “today we are not only living in a time of changes but are experiencing a true spiritual shift, marked by a wide-ranging ‘anthropological’ and ‘environmental crisis’” (p. 13). Thus the training of candida- tes to the priesthood requires of the Church today a pedagogy fully open to the integration of different aspects of formation. In the 2016 Ratio fundamentalis on priestly formation we read that “John Paul II’s pedagogical vision of priestly formation is fully open to the integration of different aspects of formation” (n. 141) and those involved in teaching. The objective is to provide them with the skills necessary to integrate the intellectual dimension of forma-tion with other aspects of formation of candidates to the priesthood.

In addition to the morning discussions led by experts of proven com- petence, participants will be able to take part in the afternoon work- shops which deal with practical issues involved in formation.

The sessions will be held in Italian, with simultaneous translation into English and Spanish will be available.

The SIXTH STUDY WEEK is addressed to formation staff involved in training candidates to the priesthood, especially the “coordinators and ‘environmental crisis’” (n. 141) and those involved in teaching. The objective is to provide them with the skills necessary to integrate the intellectual dimension of forma- tion with other aspects of formation of candidates to the priesthood.

In addition to the morning discussions led by experts of proven com- petence, participants will be able to take part in the afternoon work- shops which deal with practical issues involved in formation.

The sessions will be held in Italian, with simultaneous translation into English and Spanish will be available.